YAWL'S 2 MAN CREW DROWNS OFF BEACH

Passenger Saved Near Rockaway Point After Clinging to Hull for Three Hours.

After clinging for more than three hours to the bottom of the yawl Sid, which capsized off Rockaway Point yesterday, Harry Glasser, 44, a Jeweler of 18 the Bowery, was rescued by the crew of a fishing boat and carried to Sheepshead Bay. Capt. Archie Craig and his mate, David, 76, were drowned. The three men had gone out early in the morning, and when off Rockaway Point a hole was knocked in the side by a submerged object. The vessel quickly filled with water and capsized near the wreck of the Princess Anne, which was sunk four years ago. Capt. Craig and the mate went down and did not come to the surface. The marine police were unable to find the bodies of the drowned men. The yawl was raised, however, and towed to Lundy's pier at Twenty-third street, Brooklyn.

Joseph Moriarity, 28, world war veteran, of 142 Newton street, Brooklyn, was drowned twenty-five feet off shore in Rockaway inlet when he and two companions were forced to jump from his motor boat following an explosion of the engine. Believing Moriarity to be an expert swimmer, his companions, Frank Krutt, 25, of 142 Delmonico place, Brooklyn, and Charles J. Drexwell, 27, of 40 Shipley street, Woodhaven, Queens, attempted to save the boat, which was in flames. Falling they swam ashore to find that Moriarity had disappeared. The body was recovered.

Unable to combat the heaviest surf of the year, Miss Alida Newey, 26, of 199 Greene avenue, Brooklyn, was drowned in the breakers off the beach at Manassquan, N. J. Her companion, Vernon Osborne, of Spring Lake, after vain efforts to pull her ashore, managed to keep the girl afloat until Capt. Charles W. Cook rescued them in a heavy surf boat. Physicians worked for two hours in a vain effort to resuscitate Miss Newey.

—and then a little bit more. If the matters could fight five months, they surely our people can, too. They won by sticking; we can do likewise, and if you are not in this game to do your full duty, then step aside and let a man take your place. These may be hard words, but this is war, industrial war, and no place for kid gloves or soft talk. Now, boys, let's go from here. No surrender.

"Those defendants will not be permitted on the record here to deny responsibility for these unlawful acts, which even though they may be peaceable and lawful in themselves, it has been demonstrated are only part of a program of unlawful conduct and are done for the accomplishment of an unlawful purpose.

"The record in this case shows that the so-called peaceable and lawful acts are so interwoven with the whole plan of intimidation and obstruction that to go through the formality of enjoining the commission of assaults and other acts of violence and leave the defendants free to pursue the open and ostensibly peaceful part of their program would be an idle ceremony.

"Defendants assert, as a ground against the granting of the relief sought by the complainant, that the strike was a defensive measure against a plot of the railway companies to destroy the unions. The argument seems to be that the defendants are justified in inflicting upon the public an injury which it may be proper for them to inflict upon their adversaries in this conflict.

"It must be remembered, however, that this is a suit brought for the benefit of the public. Restraint of trade may not be adopted as a weapon in industrial warfare. The court must act upon the case now before it can give its aid to the removal of the obstructions to commerce which are found to exist.

"It has been suggested by the defendants that as the strike has been settled on some of the railroads there is no need for the injunction or at least for one of the breadth sought by the Government. The right to relief

HUGHES DECLARES BRAZIL GOOD FRIEND

Cabinet Member Returns on Battleship From Mission to Rio de Janeiro.

Charles Evans Hughes, Secretary of State, who represented this country at the opening of Brazil's centennial exposition, returned with Mrs. Hughes yesterday aboard the battleship Maryland and left for Washington at 3:25 P. M. over the Pennsylvania Railroad.

The Maryland anchored in the North River off Ninety-sixth street at 12:30 P. M., while the Secretary and Mrs. Hughes were at lunch. With them were Admiral Hilary P. Jones, U. S. N.; Representative Stephen G. Porter of Pennsylvania and Justice Edward R. Finch of the New York Supreme Court and Mrs. Finch. Major-General Robert L. Bullard and Commandant Vogelsong of the New York Navy Yard did not return with the Secretary and his party, the former going to Buenos Aires and the latter remaining at Rio de Janeiro to await a commission of American naval officers who are to assist in the reorganization of the Brazilian navy.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Hughes, Jr., son-in-law and daughter of the Secretary of State, went out to the battleship and welcomed the homecomers, coming ashore with them at 1:45 P. M. At that moment the Secretary's flag was lowered from the main truck and the salute due his office awoke the echoes as the Admiral's barge flashed shoreward. Upon the float of the Naval Militia dock the Secretary was greeted by Hall Kimbrell, representing the State Department, and by many photographers, for whom Mr. and Mrs. Hughes posed patiently. Then the Secretary and his wife went to his son's home at 540 Riverside Drive, where they remained until time to motor to the Pennsylvania Station. The Secretary made this statement for the press:

Then the Secretary and his wife went to his son's home at 540 Riverside Drive, where they remained until time to motor to the Pennsylvania Station. The Secretary made this statement for the press:

"We returned in record breaking time under the most agreeable conditions. The Maryland is our finest battleship, and to say that the officers and the crew are worthy of her is to give the highest praise. It was most instructive to see the daily drill, and the essential discipline was matched by the fine spirit of the men.

"The visit of the special mission to Brazil to attend the celebration of 100 years of Brazil's independence was a tribute to the unbroken friendship which has existed between the two peoples. We were entertained with the same spirit and were entertained with the most generous hospitality. President Pessoa and the Brazilian Government left nothing undone to prove the warmth of their welcome. I am sure that bonds of mutual esteem and friendly feeling are the stronger because of this opportunity to have personal contact with the officers of Government and leaders of opinion.

"I shall not attempt to describe the charm of Rio de Janeiro. Our stay was brief, but it was long enough to give us a lasting impression of one of Nature's loveliest scenes and of the exposition and its beautiful setting. Our own building will be a credit to our Government. I am sure that the exposition will be a great success. Needless to say, despite the pleasure of the trip, I shall be glad to get back to my desk."

It was said by a member of the party that Secretary and Mrs. Hughes received the traditional greeting from Neptune when the Maryland crossed the Equator, but that the sea god did not attempt to shake the Secretary. However, both the Secretary and Mrs. Hughes received Neptune's certificates after much speechmaking.

The Maryland broke a former naval record from Rio to New York by two hours and a half. Many of the petty officers and sailors who came ashore brought South American birds and animals as pets.

Only from a dependable specialist can you get the best in furniture and the best in values

Flint's Fine Furniture

Getting the best in furniture and the most in satisfaction
—neither, strangely enough, depends on the price you pay

IF PRICE were the best guide to good furniture, the only wise thing to do would be to pay the highest prices. But all too often high price goes with expensive decoration and poor taste.

The safest rule is to buy your furniture from a dependable furniture specialist. Go to a firm which lives furniture all the day long—whose one interest is furniture—and whose knowledge and special training enable them to make savings and to pass on those savings to their customers.

Flint & Horner's is not a small business. It is a large business. And its prices are based not on a large profit to the few, but on a small profit to the many.

How this works out you may see for yourself. Here at Flint & Horner's you will find bedroom suites from $229 to $2356; forty-eight of these suites are less than $500.

You will find dining room suites on the same sensible scale, from $298 to $4988, with 21 models below $500.

Individual pieces are priced as low as only an up-to-the-minute specialist in good furniture values can price them.
